Lakehurst, N. J.—(AP)—The Shenandoah fought the line squall in Ohio on Sept. 3 for at least half an hour before she broke up, the barograph instrument record introduced Thursday before the naval court of inquiry shows.

This record establishes that the ship began its first rapid ascent at 4:26 a. m. central time, rising from an altitude of 2,980 feet in eight minutes. The craft then leveled off but two minutes later at 4:36 she shot up almost like a rocket from 3,016 feet to 6,065 in about 10 minutes.

Her ascent halted at this altitude at 4:46. The Shenandoah then fell abruptly 1,785 feet in three minutes, bringing up at an altitude of 4,280 feet.

At this point the barograph ceased to function consecutively. Lieut. Clintonville H. Haville, who was introduced as an expert, said it was his judgment that it ceased as a result of the instrument itself receiving a violent bump, or else the whole control car in which it was located received such a bump. There were blotches on the record made of the same ink as that in the barograph but it was not possible for the officers accurately to interpret the blotches.

Whether the barograph ceased to function when the control car broke off the ship could not be determined.

Commander Sidney M. Kraus, another expert, estimated that the control car fell only about 1,000 feet and if that be correct the barograph ceased to record before the car fell.

TO CALL MITCHELL
Lakehurst, N. J.—(AP)—Wreckage of the airship Shenandoah was inspected Thursday by the naval court of inquiry here so that members might form a clearer idea from the testimony of survivors just what happened within the big ship when she broke up in a storm over Ohio, Sept. 3, with a loss of 14 officers and men.

Survivors explained the details regarding the ship's construction and the function of the various pieces of wreckage which had been laid out on the floor of the hangar here in the relative position in which it was in the original hull.

The inspection consumed virtually all of the morning and there was no taking of evidence. Later in the day, the barograph record showing exactly how the ship was bumped about in the storm was to be presented to the court to amplify the testimony of the crew to the ship's position when the breakup came.

Washington, D. C.—With its preliminary survey of the military and postal air services completed hearings before the president's air board were in suspension Thursday until Monday, when the next phase of the inquiry will open with the testimony of air pilots.

In the interim, the board will have opportunity to study the mass of information already presented by the war and navy departments, including the controversial issues emphasized by the divergences of opinion in the war department on the question of air defense organization.

Col. William Mitchell whose advocacy of a unified air service under a department of national defense found support in the views presented to the board by Major General Patrick, chief of the army air service, is one of the army fliers to be heard. The former assistant army air chief, whose most recent attack on the army and navy air service administrations revived controversy that largely brought about the present inquiry is expected to appear before the board on Tuesday.

New York.—(AP)—Chinatowns in Cleveland and Boston are threatened with extinction by city officials as a result of tong wars which threatened to void the peace treaty between the Hip Sings and On Leongs signed here Monday night.

City Manager Hopkins of Cleveland Wednesday night ordered buildings in Chinatown razed as fire and health hazards. More than 450 Chinese were detained for questioning in connection with a murder Tuesday night. Chinatown was deserted. Police have been guarding the district, as most of the doors were broken down by raiders.

Boston police said after conference with New York Chinese leaders that the killing of a Chinese in Boston signed in New York was considered in tong circles as having voided the agreement.

Captain Goodwin of the Boston police have notice that if another shot was fired he would do all in his power to wipe out the Chinese district there. There have been two roundups of Chinese in New York with the result that several hundred are awaiting deportation.

Waukegan, Ill.—(AP)—Further inquiry by coroner's jury into the death Sunday of Mrs. Lillie Holt shot four times after a family quarrel, was adjourned until Thursday night with eight of a dozen witnesses yet to be questioned.

Lake-co authorities meanwhile investigated any connection between the death and the arrest for speeding in Libertyville, a short time after the shooting for Albert Haron, husband of Clara, daughter of Mrs. Holt. Haron's shirt was torn and his face cut and bruised when arrested. He explained that he had a fall while playing golf.

Clara and Arthur Holt, her step father and Mrs. Holt's husband, were still held in the Waukegan jail, pending a report by the coroner jury on whether the suicide or murder caused the death.

DITHMAR TO DEFENSE OF
CAL REGIMEIndependent in Maiden Campaign Talk Criticizes La-Follette as Renegade

Milwaukee.—(AP)—Support of Republican principles, or divergence to the vagaries of an untied youth who attacked them, was cited as the principal issue in the special senatorial campaign in Wisconsin by Edward F. Dithmar, independent Republican candidate for the United States senate in an address here Wednesday night.

The untied youth referred to, Mr. Dithmar said, is Robert M. LaFollette, Jr., who obtained the Republican nomination in the special primary, Sept. 15, after assailing the Republican administration and the policies of President Calvin Coolidge.

Mr. Dithmar, former lieutenant governor and one-time ardent supporter of LaFollette principles, severely scored the junior LaFollette for opposing the policies of the administration while running as a candidate under the party banner.

"In plain and simple terms," Mr. Dithmar asserted, "the question the voters must settle is whether they want a United States senator who will help, honestly and untiringly, in the progress of our nation in harmony with President Coolidge and his declared policies, or a senator opposed to the president and his policies."

Mr. Dithmar frankly admitted he was of progressive tendencies in regard to party principles, but asserted that he, with thousands of other progressive Republicans in the state, refused to leave the Republican party for a third party, which, "because of its extreme radicalism, was destined to failure and inevitable defeat."

Divided Republican support of a number of the primary candidates caused the defeat of a "true" Republican and resulted in the nomination of Young La Follette, Mr. Dithmar declared.

Nomination of the junior La Follette was fostered and carried through a fruition by a secret political machine organized by three vitally interested men who made a secret pact under the capitol dome, Mr. Dithmar said.

Mr. Dithmar went into his views on national issues extensively, asserting that he approved of the tax reduction plan and economy-in-government program of the president; the early undertaking and completion of the St. Lawrence-Great Lakes waterway project; payment in full of war debts owed to the United States; further reduction of the public debt in accordance with adjustment of tax schedules; entry of the United States into the world court of international justice with "essential reservations"; fair treatment for the railroads and fair consideration of the Esch-Cummins federal transportation act; adequate support for the children's bureau; speedy and impartial prosecution of all criminal wrongdoers in public office regardless of party affiliations, and modification of tariff laws which hinder the shipment and sale of farm products.

Charged With Conspiracy
and Subornation of Perjury

Woodstock, Ill.—(AP)—The defense in the trial of County Judge Barnes and former State's Attorney E. S. Lumley rested its case shortly before noon Thursday with the prospect that arguments would open at the afternoon session. The case is expected to reach the jury some time Friday.

The defendants are charged with conspiracy and subornation of perjury. The final witness Wednesday was Attorney H. A. Burdick of Kenosha who was associated with Judge Barnes as counsel for Samuel and Clifford Wilson in a suit against them which was dismissed.

Burdick was questioned as to the $2,000 fee in that case and said he and not Judge Barnes fixed the amount of the fee. He also said he had suggested, and not the judge, that the Wilsons pay Lumley, then state's attorney, $150. Lumley represented Truman Abbott had sued the Wilsons to recover notes and trust deeds.

Coolidge Passes Buck To Congress On Arms ParleyBY DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, D. C.—Has President Coolidge surrendered the long cherished prerogative of the executive branch of the government to decide whether the United States government shall participate in international conferences?

This question has been raised as a result of the President's announcement that the invitation to be sent out by the League of Nations at Geneva to all countries to participate in a parley to reduce armaments should go to congress. Hitherto the department of state, especially under Secretary Hughes, has clung tenaciously to the theory that international conferences were within the province of the executive branch of the government, that the president could appoint commissioners and envoys and generally conduct the foreign policy of the United States as provided by the constitution without making binding agreements unless approved by congress.

But congress in recent years has gotten into the habit of tacking a provision in the naval appropriation bill asking that the president call an international conference or authorize American representatives to attend general disarmament parleys. In the Wilson administration when this piece of legislation first came up, the executive took the position that it was interesting advice but that the president must be the judge of whether it was opportune or advisable for America to enter an international conference of any kind.

Somewhat the same view was held by the late President Harding who refused to heed the resolution pressed by Senator Borah that the United States call an international economic conference. Mr. Coolidge has not waited for congressional resolution to send representatives to the conference held hitherto but he has been mindful of the criticism voiced in congress.

Coolidge is unwilling to take any step so important as the sending of representatives to a general disarmament conference unless congress says in advance it will not object. The method would be adoption of a joint resolution asking the president to accept any invitations which in his judgment will advance the cause of peace and disarmament.

But even on this there may be a great deal of debate, for congress does not like to be in the position of approving in advance any general program on which an invitation to America to participate in a conference might be based.

The feeling here is that Mr. Coolidge has not felt it wise to take responsibility for declining the disarmament conference invitation but has reached that this organization would under all the circumstances be obliged to remain neutral. It was still a muted question. Friday evening, and before any final decision on it was rendered Senator Wilcox withdrew. The organization then took a second vote of the entire executive committee which resulted in the decision to endorse Edward F. Dithmar, by the following vote:

Yes, 19; No, 1; 6 unheard from.

"My only purpose in writing this letter is to get the facts before you. Dithmar has without qualifications endorsed President Coolidge and his policies, and unequivocally agrees to hold up the hands of the president; and in addition as a member of this organization has taken a firm stand against the Madison ring."

Board for Switching from Wilcox to Dithmar

Oshkosh.—(AP)—W. J. Campbell, chairman of the Republican executive committee, in a statement Thursday gave the facts of what occurred at the meetings of the committee prior to the withdrawal of Roy P. Wilcox from the senatorial race.

"The sub-committee of the Republican executive committee spent Wednesday and Thursday in Milwaukee," Campbell said. "It went there to confer with Senator Wilcox under an arrangement made with him the preceding Friday, in pursuance of a resolution adopted by the convention, instructing and empowering the committee to handle any emergency which might arise."

"After hours of earnest effort to secure unity upon one candidate, Mr. Barry and Mr. Dithmar offered to withdraw provided Senator Wilcox would do likewise, and leave in the hands of the committee the selection of another candidate. It must be remembered that Wilcox, Dithmar and Barry had all filed as independents. It must also be borne in mind that the executive committee had nothing to do with, and did not know of, the filing of Mr. Dithmar as an independent until same was announced in the public press. It must be further borne in mind that many Republicans then began advising the committee that the very emergency had arisen which was contemplated in the resolution."

LITTLE RESULT
"With this view the committee struggled during Thursday and no resolution being arrived at, the committee adjourned late Thursday afternoon and the members returned to their several homes outside of Milwaukee. On Friday, the chairman started a poll of the entire executive committee for the purpose of getting their vote on the question as to what the organization should do in the event that Wilcox and Dithmar both remained in the field. This vote was in process of being taken at Oshkosh on Friday, when Friday afternoon at 4 o'clock, Senator Wilcox called me on the long distance telephone. He was then told that the vote at that time stood overwhelmingly in favor of remaining neutral in case both he and Mr. Dithmar stayed in the field."

The decision had not then even been reached that this organization would under all the circumstances be obliged to remain neutral. It was still a muted question. Friday evening, and before any final decision on it was rendered Senator Wilcox withdrew. Madison.—(AP)—Before conversations are entered upon with France on the settlement of the war debt, America should demand "a halt in this ruthless warfare" between the French and the Rifians in Morocco, Governor Blaine declared in a telegram addressed to President Coolidge. The telegram was made public by the governor Thursday.

"In the name of humanity and decency, I protest the settlement of foreign debts until American has secured peace in Africa," Blaine said. "The war and for the generous help of the American people, the settlement of the war debt, long rumored and deferred, were on."

The great conference room at the treasury was the meeting place, and only a brief period devoted to instructions all around was allowed before Secretary Mellon called the session to order.

France's position stated by Joseph Caillaux, her minister of finance, was that his country has not forgotten "what we owe to America for her splendid work to end victorious by the war and for the generous help our people received from citizens of the United States."

Secretary Mellon, head of the American debt commission declared he recognized the influence the present conference may have on the peace of the world and described the American desire and duty as one in direction of a settlement that would be fair to all, "in the practical test of time, workable."

M. Caillaux spoke very briefly explaining the hope of the French was to report a settlement that would not only be practicable in so far as material interests are concerned, but one that would be "worthy of the past of the two great nations."

He said the discussion between the two commissions should go forward in such way as "to fortify peace and help the economic stabilization in the world."

"I have come from France," said M. Caillaux, "entrusted by my government, to meet the obligations of my country toward the United States."

Washington, D. C.—Documents which in effect constitute a French offer for settlement of that nation's $4,000,000 debt to the United States were submitted to the American debt commission Thursday at the first meeting between the French and American negotiators. Although the character of the proposal was not made public it was established that to at least some members of the American commission it was not acceptable as drawn.

Washington, D. C.—(AP)—Conversations looking to a settlement of France's $4,000,000 debt to the United States were formally begun Thursday when members of the French and American debt commissions assembled at the treasury.

Led by the finance minister, Joseph Caillaux, the French delegation appeared at the treasury promptly at 10 o'clock. The meeting there by Secretary Mellon, head of the American mission, and the actual negotiations, long rumored and deferred, were on.

The great conference room at the treasury was the meeting place, and only a brief period devoted to instructions all around was allowed before Secretary Mellon called the session to order.

SCHOOL HEADS TALK AT FIRST FARM-CITY MEET

Meeting and Rohan Principal
Speakers at Wieckert Farm Gathering

Educational talks by A. G. Meating, county school superintendent, and B. J. Rohan, city superintendent, a community song program led by Earl Baker, and a cafeteria supper were on the program for a crowd of 100 people at the community meeting Wednesday evening at the Walter Wieckert farm, eight miles north of Appleton, on highway 47. The gathering was sponsored by Appleton Chamber of Commerce, and is one of a series of meetings designed to bring city and country people together to talk over their mutual problems, and to create a feeling of friendliness and greater sympathy for one another.

SCHOOLS ARE GOOD
In discussing rural schools, Mr. Meating said that although there was much to be accomplished in the bettering of rural educational conditions, it was quite remarkable what a fine type of work was being done in country schools of Outagamie county. Teachers and children alike were considering the handling of the school as a matter of building up a community sentiment in rural districts that would improve the type of school in that district. The main thing in any community or rural district he said, is to build up a frame of mind that will bring a united effort to support the schools.

"The school came as one of the first public institutions in the thought and action of those pioneers who were the founders of this nation," said Mr. Meating, "and the fact that the United States has become such a great nation is due to the emphasis placed by its people on education. This country could not continue as one of the great nations of the earth if further development of education were to be retarded."
Mr. Meating pointed out the differences in educational opportunities of city children and country children. There is a greater difference than there should be, he said, and if this difference is continued or increased it will lead to class distinctions not desirable among any people, and especially among school children. One reason for this difference, according to Mr. Meating, is that city people are more ready to experiment and try new educational methods, while country people, partly from necessity are more conservative in school matters.

LIKES CONSOLIDATION
Mr. Meating spoke favorably of consolidated schools in certain parts of the state which have taken the place of the one room country schools in Door county, which is made up from nine former one-room district schools. He said that Door county people had not found this type of school more expensive or difficult to operate than the old district system.
Country schools have suffered considerably in the past because of the extreme youthfulness of the district teachers, according to Mr. Meating. It is hard to get an older person and one more experienced to take a position as a country school teacher. Mr. Meating said, because the district teachers job is a man sized proposition. The country teacher has to teach eight grades, supervise study classes, act as principal, and also as janitor.

GETTING MORE ALIKE
Due to the fact that the automobile has brought city and country people so much closer together, the country people and city people have become more alike in all ways, and there is all the more reason why there should be no differences in the educational opportunities of city and country children, the speaker said.
"The greatest need of a rural school, city school, or a community is simply a loyal determination of the people to make that school or community a real force in their lives," said Mr. Meating in concluding his speech.

In speaking of the purpose of education Superintendent Rohan said that some people send their children to school because the law compels them to do so, others because they think it is their duty, and still others send their children to school so they won't have to work as hard as their parents did, and can have an easier time in life.
Mr. Rohan said that the people who send their boys and girls to school with the idea that they won't have to work as hard as their parents, are taking the wrong attitude. He said that parents should send their children to school so they can do better and bigger work than their parents, and not send them with the idea of getting out of work.

SCHOOL FOR MASSES
Years ago education was only for the well to do, Mr. Rohan said, and the educational given was of the "ivory tower" sort, which simply made life more enjoyable for those who reaped its benefits. It is only recently that practical subjects such as history, science, manual arts, and domestic science have been introduced into the school curriculum, and that education has been placed at the disposal of the masses. The cultural education makes life more enjoyable for everybody, said Mr. Rohan, and the practical education also makes people happy in that it helps them find their vocation or life work.
Everyone can do some one thing especially well, Mr. Rohan said, and it is the purpose of modern education to help the child find that subject which he is most interested in, and which he enjoys, so that his life work may be determined definitely before he leaves school. The purpose of education is to arouse a genuine interest in the student and help him find the thing for which he

Motion Picture Is Much In Use For Education Here

Education by means of motion pictures is more extensive in the city than the average person would think, since the survey on education submitted to the Wisconsin Conference of Social Work in connection with the better cities contest reveals that 90 meetings were held during the last year for this purpose.

The survey indicates also that 39 per cent of the public taxation in Appleton goes to the support of schools, exclusive of the capital expenditures for buildings, etc. The enrollment in the schools exclusive of nonresident pupils is shown to be 5,897 out of 6,205 persons shown by the census to be of school age.
Education in Appleton is described from all aspects in the survey made by the educational committee. Dr. D. O. Kinsman was chairman of the committee and the other members were Lee C. Rasey, H. F. Hellig, A. G. Oosterhaus, Rev. J. Rohan, Dr. M. H. Small, Frank Younger, J. Carrie Morgan, Mrs. L. J. Marshall and C. W. Cross.

ENROLLMENT SHOWN
Net enrollment of the schools last year was shown to be: Grades 2,735, high school, 1,104, vocational school 451, St. Joseph school 784, St. Mary 375, Sacred Heart 234, St. Paul 205, St. Matthew 29, Zion Lutheran 147. This gives a total of 6,070, and with a deduction of 325 for nonresident pupils leaves the net enrollment for Appleton as 5,745. The committee adds to this 72 attending Lawrence college, 14 in business college, 5 with private tutors and 61 in colleges and boards.

is best fitted, Mr. Rohan said. As an illustration of this point Mr. Rohan told of Appleton's junior high schools, where the child comes into about 30 contacts or cores of information, and one of which he may take a special liking to, and thus be aided in finding his life work.
"If we can help the boys and girls of today find the vacation in life which they will most enjoy, we shall feel that we have accomplished the great mission of education," Mr. Rohan said.

Robert Amundson, county agricultural agent, presided at the meeting, and introduced the speakers. The speeches and community song program were held in the Wieckert home, while the cafeteria supper which preceded it was eaten from tables and benches set out on the front lawn. Dr. H. K. Pratt, chairman of the rural affairs committee of the Chamber of Commerce announced the November farm festival to be held in Appleton, and urged all farmers to come. A rising vote of thanks was given to Mr. and Mrs. Walter Wieckert by all the guests.

Indigestion—under the trees
With the fun of cold picnic lunches and the make-shift meals of summer outings, Nature usually shows her resentment with a touch, or worse, of indigestion. This needn't happen, however, if you take the precaution of stocking up on Pep-o-mint Life Savers when you pack the lunch basket. They help you dodge indigestion and make a wonderful dessert after the lunch.
Indigestion is a miserable thing. So many people suffer this way. If they only knew that simple old method our grandfathers used—peppermint.
And now it is available in a new and really convenient form—Pep-o-mint Life Savers; the little candy mints with the hole.
It sounds very simple and old-fashioned. But Pep-o-

HUGE INCREASE IN CONSUMPTION OF GAS, KEROSENE

State Inspector's Staff Inspected 4,797,000 Barrels of Gasoline During Year

Madison—(AP)—Growing motor traffic has increased the use of gasoline six-fold in Wisconsin in the past ten years, T. J. Cunningham, state oil inspector today reported to Governor Blaine.

In the last fiscal year, 4,797,830 barrels of gasoline were inspected, compared with 811,083 in 1915-1916. Increased use of kerosene also was reported.

Fires and explosions caused by petroleum products resulted in property loss of $183,115 in the last fiscal year, or less than one-half of the similar loss of the previous year, which was $431,602. Twenty six deaths were reported in the accidents, and ninety-seven persons were injured, the deaths being the same and the injuries one more than during the previous year.

"As usual the investigations show that the dangerous methods of starting or hurrying fire with kerosene is the chief cause of such fatalities," said the report. Eleven persons lost their lives through pouring kerosene on fires. The majority of gasoline accidents were caused by the use of matches or other lights.

"The receipts of the department in the past fiscal year were $180,094.55, and the office and field disbursements $128,356.81. The number of barrels of gasoline, 4,797,830, making a total of 5,608,308 barrels inspected. The inspection fee is 3 cents a barrel, having been reduced from 4 cents during the past year."

10 PER CENT MORE STUDENTS AT COLLEGE
Although the second day of college enrollment did not keep Olin Mead, registrar, as busy as the first day, Tuesday, the expectation of a larger enrollment than last year was justified. No actual count has been made, but Mr. Mead estimates the decrease at 10 per cent.

Classes began Thursday morning, the periods being shortened to one-half hour so that every class could be attended for the first day.
al lines and an enrollment of 507 in university extension courses or other special training. Appleton expects to score high in the contest because of the facts presented.

The survey also shows much other community activity along education.

POINT TO CHANGE IN BANK METHODS

President of State Bankers Association Gives Address
at Kiwanis Meeting

Differences in methods used in old fashioned banking and modern banking were pointed out in a talk by L. Albert Karel, Keweenaw, president of the State Bankers association, Wednesday noon at the weekly luncheon of the Appleton Kiwanis club at the Conway hotel.

Mr. Karel spoke of the great increase in resources of the banks of Wisconsin during the last few years. Present bank resources in the state amount to over a billion dollars, he declared. Old fashioned bankers were very secretive about the banks business. Mr. Karel said, but most modern bankers have discarded this practice, mainly because bank stock today is held by a great number of people.

Investments held by banks of days gone by were mainly of a local nature, while modern banks have investments and interests which are nationwide in scope. Mr. Karel spoke of the small returns banks receive for their investments in comparison to returns received by other institutions. He also told of the unfair methods used in taxing banks in Wisconsin, comparing it with the comparatively lighter taxes of other corporations.

Frank H. Gamel, boyology expert, gave a short talk on the boy problem.

COUNCIL TO BE ASKED TO BUILD GARBAGE PLANT

City Administration Favors Disposal Plant Built Jointly by Appleton, Neenah and Menasha

Appleton may build a garbage disposal plant within the next year. Whether the city will carry out plans which are now under consideration by the administration depends entirely upon the action which the common council will take when preparation of the budget is started.

That a recommendation for an appropriation for construction of such a plant will be made to the council when the city's budget for the ensuing year is made out is quite probable. And it is just as probable that the council will consider the recommendation with favor, in view of the constantly increased demands on the city for garbage disposal.

Years ago, when the population of the city was much smaller, the matter of garbage disposal was handled adequately by private collections. The city has grown considerably during the past 15 years, however, and it is apparent that private collections can no longer take care of the problem as efficiently as might be desired.

If the council allows an appropriation for the proposed project, two plans for the construction of a sewage disposal plant will be considered.

One plan will provide for a plant to be built jointly by the cities of Appleton, Neenah and Menasha. The other will be made out for this city alone.

The former plan, which is regarded by the city administration as the most feasible, probably will be brought up for consideration first. If these three cities should build jointly a plant for the disposal of sewage, the expense would be less for each city.

Such a plant, it is pointed out, could be built somewhere between here and Neenah, in a location which would be convenient for all three cities. A larger plant would be required, of course, but with three cities sharing the expense, the cost to each would be less than were each to build its own.

If this city proceeds with the project alone, an appropriation of from $20,000 to $40,000 will be necessary. This would pay for equipment, including trucks, etc., as well as the plant itself.

That the city cannot continue much longer without a garbage disposal plant is the general opinion of the city administration. If it does not go ahead with the plans now, it leaves to within a few years at the latest, supporters of the proposition declare.

HASKIN TELLS HOW TO CURE "HAY FEVER"

Although no definite cure has been discovered for hay fever and asthma, persons may be made immune by submitting to inoculation of vaccine made from the particular pollen which is causing the discomfort, declares Frederic J. Haskin, director of the Appleton Post-Crescent information bureau, in replying to a letter of a Post-Crescent reader asking for a cure for hay fever.

It has been found that both asthma and hay fever, especially hay fever, are caused by the pollens of different kinds of weeds and grasses, and that it is necessary to study the individual case in order to determine the cure, according to Mr. Haskin.

In replying to another reader's request for names of books on herbs and insects, Mr. Haskin suggests the following: "Garden of Herbs," and "Fabre's Book of Insects."

Sixty-nine letters were received by Mr. Haskin from Post-Crescent readers for the week ending Thursday, Sept. 10. If there is any information which readers desire, a letter to Mr. Haskin with an enclosed stamp will bring an answer.

The envelope should be addressed to "Post-Crescent Information Bureau, Frederic J. Haskin, director, Washington, D. C."

Ralph Slattery left for Columbus, Ohio, where he will enter the graduate school of the Ohio State university. He was accompanied by Leo Smudde as far as Chicago. Mr. Smudde is on his way to Palm Beach, Fla.

FEDERAL HEALTH EXPERT COMING

H. M. Guilford Will Make Survey Here to Assist Better Cities Contest Judges

Appleton will have the advantage of a health survey worth several hundred dollars through the visit here Wednesday or Thursday of next week of H. M. Guilford, director of the bureau of communicable diseases of the United States public health service.

Mr. Guilford comes here in connection with the Wisconsin better cities contest, in which Appleton is one of five contenders for a prize of $1,000. It was found by the state board of health that the surveys sent in by various cities on health conditions did not contain all the information needed in order to judge the contest properly.

Two experts of the federal department working in cooperation with the Wisconsin board of health therefore are being sent into contesting cities, Mr. Guilford coming here. They are collectors of health facts only and will not attempt to interpret the health work of any city. In other words, they will in no way assume the duties of a contest judge.

The Appleton committee in the health section of the contest now is working on a revised survey which has been submitted by the Wisconsin Conference of Social Work, sponsors of the contest. The new questionnaire is much more thorough than the other one. Mr. Guilford is expected to assist in the handling of some of the more difficult questions, when he comes to make his survey.

Work which he will do here would cost several hundred dollars if such a survey were privately made, the social conference declares. The data will be valuable to the city in many ways, it is said.

SIGN PAINTER READY TO COMPLY WITH NEW ORDER

Following announcement by A. G. Brusewitz, county highway commissioner, that all advertising matter and signs along highways will be confiscated in keeping with the state law, E. A. Fransway of the Valley Sign Co. declares he is willing to cooperate in the removal of signs provided other advertisers do likewise.

"Although the removal of our signs from highways will result in a loss of more than $1,000 to us, who are willing to cooperate with the county highway commissioner in his campaign to beautify the county," he said. "The removal of signs by only one or two concerns would do little toward securing the desired result, however. It is necessary for all advertisers to remove their signs if the purpose is to be accomplished."

Whether the movement to abolish highway advertising signs will get under this fall, Mr. Brusewitz has not yet intimated. Word must be sent to all advertisers first and this will take much time.

CHANGE THE SPEED LIMIT

The recommendations, of the special committee working with the state highway commission, for a maximum speed limit of 40 miles per hour, and a minimum speed limit of 25 miles per hour on arterial highways outside of cities, and a maximum speed limit of 25 miles per hour
on arterials in cities, will we think meet with universal approval.

The present speed limit of 15 miles per hour on all streets in all cities of the state,
and of 30 miles per hour on all highways
has been endurable only because the local authorities in many instances have instructed traffic police to overlook infractions of the speed limit where the safety of those using the streets, and highways is not involved.

Through arteries of traffic are established in cities for the express purpose of speeding up travel on the street so designated. Once a street has been cleared of cross traffic there can be no reason why
the limit should be held down to 15 miles per hour. The maximum of 25 miles we think is perfectly safe where the warning
is plainly marked for traffic approaching from cross streets.

On country highways the limit of 40 miles per hour is perfectly safe as everyone knows who drives the roads. The change of the speed limit from 30 miles to 40 miles per hour will not increase the speed at which they are now travelled, but will merely legalize a larger percentage of the driving.

The proposal to establish a minimum speed limit of 25 miles per hour on through routes will tend to make the roadways safe, we believe. Many of the accidents now occurring on the highways are caused by cars turning out to pass others. It is not uncommon to see a procession of cars several miles in length following along behind a loafer who persists in going about 10 or 15 miles per hour despite the impatience of everyone in his train. With heavy traffic in the opposite direction one such driver can hold up a score of cars for considerable distance.

Every time a car is turned out of the stream of traffic to pass another, one more hazard is added to the driving. A large percentage of the "turnouts" could be eliminated by a minimum speed limit, and for this purpose 25 miles per hour appears reasonable.

So far as they have been developed
we think the proposed changes in the traffic rules are good. Mark the highways plainly as arterials, increase the speed limits, and establish a minimum of speed on the through roads.

LESSONS OF THE PACIFIC PLANE
RESCUE

There has been no more dramatic story than that of the rescue, or rather, the escape, of Commander Rogers and his brave crew of flyers.

Probably the only ones to whom it was not dramatic were the aviators themselves.
They were behind the scenes, and knew
all the plot.

Besides, they were busy, and hard work leaves little time for thrills. They come afterward.

But, at least, the dramatizing of it to the rest of the world will serve to emphasize its lessons.

First of these is the lesson long ago
learned in mine disasters.

The rule of the mines is that the entombed victims are alive until their dead bodies are discovered.

Now it will be the rule that lost aviators are alive until they are found dead,
or the broken fragments of their vessel
are found without them.

Next is that a modern bombing seaplane is a seaworthy vessel, and should be manned by men who are seamen as well as airmen. Only the fine seamanship of these navy aviators saved a tragedy.

Also, the small lessons of one accident
warn against repeating its particular failures.

Another flight will have a radio transmitting set that can be operated by hand
if necessary, when all other power is gone.

A husky man, turning a crank, with proper gears, can turn out a couple of hundred "watts" of power, and a whole crew together could turn out a considerable fraction of a kilowatt, which is a great deal more than is needed to operate a transmitting set.

And there will be more emergency food,
more water, and a little reserve gasoline,
not available for flying.

Finally, one naval flyer has made a reputation which even yellow journals will respect. And that man is appointed assistant chief of the air service.

If that man makes what yellow journalists critics, in and out of the service,
think are "mistakes," they can at least
not be charged to ignorance, incompetence, lack of practical experience, or lack of skill, resourcefulness, character or courage.

A sensible man, loyal to his service,
who has at the same time the confidence of the sensationalists, was needed—and has been found.

WHEN LIFE WAS SIMPLE

Unless it has something to do with airplanes or motor cars or with the more vigorous and spectacular games like tennis or baseball, it is not likely that the announcement of a coming national tournament will get much attention from us. And when we learn that the tournament in question is to decide the national championship in horseshoe pitching we are inclined to yield it even less than passing notice.

In an age when we demand for diversion
nothing short of headspins on the wings of a rushing airplane; when a game of auto polo is an ordinary occurrence
only occasionally thrilling us, and when a ball player has to be a consistent home run hitter, we are not likely to wax enthusiastic over horseshoe pitching.

And yet, this ancient pastime is not without its merits. More keenly than ever should it today challenge our attention, for it goes back to a time when life was simpler. It carries us to remote countrysides and lanes at a time when the noise of the world was barely making itself heard even in the great cities. Quiet days those! when men got their exercise
at their work, and didn't find it necessary,
as men do now, to work at their play.

The game of horseshoes satisfied to the full the simple desires of a simple life. It did not take years of most exacting toil to perfect one's self in it; one improved with practice, of course; one may become exceedingly skillful at it, but the nerve-racking apprenticeship required for perfection in a game like tennis, for instance,
is not needed to enjoy pitching horseshoes.

It recommends itself to the novice and to the master; to old and to young. It stimulates an easy-going interest; its leisurely pace permits of conversation running into amiable channels of every sort.
It is associated not with thronging multitudes jeering and opposing player or luck-less umpire, but with individuals engaged in talk the while the happy hours go by.

As such the game of horseshoes is a restatement of a view of life and manner of living now rapidly going from among us. We are glad that a national tournament is coming off this month. It will be in some way an assurance that the good old times may be brought back occasionally.

When 110 union barbers in Union City, N. J.,

tiful dumbbell who secretly thinks she is going to reduce her "figure" with the gentle pressure of somebody's magic elastic girdle is a pulchre person indeed compared with the handsome Mrs. Wisenheimer who is convinced (by a shrewd and slender representative) that she can have it boiled off without detraction from her regular business which is just sitting around.

In the quaint old times they used to call them
sweat baths; later they became steam baths, cap-sorb baths, hot air baths, electric baths, and the light baths, and the elimination baths. Various other names of a special kind are given to the sweat bath by various exploiters of the credulity of the Wisenheimer family, according to the avenue of approach.

The normal adult loses about 1 1/2 ounces of body weight in the form of a sweat in an hour. In a hot air bath the same individual will lose more than a pound of weight in the form of sweat in the same length of time.

So if Mrs. Wisenheimer weighs herself before and after taking her sweat bath she is going to be delighted with the wonderful result and the affable attendant will join her in a good laugh at the ridiculous notion that one can't have a little superfluous flesh boiled off in that way and she will suggest as she returns Mrs. Wisenheimer's $1.15 out of a liver, that maybe the doctors are a little jealous of the success of such establishments.

One pound and three ounces of fat, which is about the weight of a fat woman, would cost her
about $1.15 out of a liver, that maybe the doctors are a
little jealous of the success of such establishments.
One pound and three ounces of fat, which is
about the weight of a fat woman, would cost her
about $1.15 out of a liver, that maybe the doctors are a
little jealous of the success of such establishments.

But, also, something seems to give Mrs. Wisenheimer an extraordinary thirst. She just can't go very long without a little drink of water. And it takes only a few little drinks to restore the poor woman to her quondam level of specific gravity or density, physically speaking. Also to restore her to her customary good nature, for with the water bolstering up the bath, a good deal of the anguish of Mrs. Wisenheimer's pleasing plumpness seems to ooze from her system.

Study of the metabolism or oxidation process of the body of an individual receiving such a sweat bath shows that there is rather less than 10 per cent increase in metabolism, and that is how all flesh is disposed of. The temporary loss of water has no bearing on the individual's weight next day; the water poured out in the sweat is easily restored to the tissue within a few hours, as a rule. The trifling increase in metabolism attending such baths is obviously insignificant so far as any weight reduction may be concerned.

Now if the misguided Mrs. Wisenheimer could be bribed, coerced or otherwise persuaded to walk
for an hour she could really speed up her slow metabolism. Scientific tests have shown that walking two miles an hour increases metabolism to three times the resting rate (300 per cent); walking four miles in an hour (pretty fast going) increases
metabolism to five times the resting rate.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Keep Healthfully Cool

I am much interested in your advice concerning the proper temperature for artificially heated living rooms, work rooms and sleeping rooms. (Mrs.
D. M. H.)

Answer: For living rooms a temperature of 64 to 68 degrees F. is generally most healthful. For work rooms the temperature should be lower, the more vigorous the muscular activity the lower the temperature should be. For sleeping rooms, the temperature should be about that of the outside air. Elderly and feeble folk should wear warmer clothing or use artificial aids such as hot water bottles and the like for keeping warm, not the very high temperatures they commonly demand in the vain attempt to keep comfortable. Habit has much to do with this matter of regulating household temperature. Don't start the codding in the early fall or winter.

LOOKING BACKWARD

Twenty-five Years Ago

Thursday, Sept. 27, 1900.

At a meeting at the city hall this morning a committee consisting of H. A. Kamps, F. E. Harriman and Humphrey Pierce was appointed to draw up, contracts for the Bell Watch Co., which was to be established here. Mr. Bell, president of the company, was in the city to confer with the stockholders.

A mass meeting was held at the armory last evening to discuss the establishment of a cannery factory here. A committee consisting of Mayor Hammel, Father Fitzmaurice, Capt. Marston, Mr.
Sherman, Mr. Sacksteder and Mr. Cotter was appointed to raise $3,500 so as to finance the project.

Edward Lehman, owner and captain of the Fawn, and Miss Lizzie Schultz were married at Milwaukee, Mich., and announced that fact to their friends when they returned to the city.

Manager Tom Farley of the Appleton baseball team, booked his players for a game with the Skidmores in Milwaukee the following Sunday.

C. F. Smith, who owned a stone quarry just outside the city, said that the season had been a poor
one because there was very little building this summer.

A private dancing party was given at Green Bay last evening in honor of Joseph Mader who was about to move to Appleton.

Shiocton when the machine was struck by a Green

almost entirely demolished.

Herman Wickett of the town of Center broke two ribs in a fall Tuesday afternoon while doing repair work on the second floor of his house. He fell to the floor below and hung on the joists until rescued.

Ground was broken yesterday for a new resi-

Q. How is charcoal bleached? G. L.
R.

A. The Forest Products Laboratory
says: "We have never heard of charcoal being bleached and we do not believe that such process is possible.
Charcoal is naturally black in color and the more nearly a pure carbon is obtained the blacker is the color."

Q. How many Protestant missonaries does America send to non-Christian countries? I. C. S.

A. The Protestant denominations in the United States send out about 10-000 foreign missionaries.

Q. Is it correct to say a hotel or "an hotel"? B. G.

A. Words beginning with "h" that are accented on the second syllable are preceded by "an"—"an hotel" is correct but "a hospital".

Q. When was Ulster given its present standing in the British Empire?
J. O. I.

A. The bill making Ulster a separate entity of the British Empire passed its third reading in the British Parliament on November 12, 1920 and the King's consent was finally obtained in December.

"BIG THINGS" IN LIFE
OFTEN APPEAR TRIVIAL

From The Philadelphia Ledger.

A young married woman with a baby that took much of her time and care said she was discouraged when she thought how little her life work mattered compared with her husband's business.

"He talks of large affairs," she explained, "and things I don't know anything about. My husband's work seems so large and mine is so little."

But the woman who felt that her life was caged and circumscribed was doing the creative and constructive work of building a home in a little house and she did not realize that in so doing she fulfilled the law of her being and nobly served the race.

It is not just the house made with hands that constitutes the home. It is the environment created therein,
which furniture and inanimate things cannot supply. Four walls may build a prison or they may mean a temple and a shrine.

The nation is full of little houses where pure content abides. The misery that fills the divorce courts and gets into the headlines is so exceptional as to be "news."

Most families are bound by ties of tender devotion, which the occasional friction or tension of dwelling in close proximity cannot destroy. Most husbands and wives are faithful and loving and indispensable to each other. Books and plays that discolor the universe with sensational misrepresentation, with untrue readings of life, cannot be their lying version efface the fact that most of the people most of the time—living in families, loyal friends, good neighbors, honest citizens—are trying to do right and in the low, narrow rooms of little houses are finding space for dreams as lofty as the stars.

TWO FLOORS OF GOOD THINGS TO WEAR

MUSEUM SHOP
IS CAPITAL'S
WONDER SPOT
Visitor Misses Interesting
Scene When He Passes by Smithsonian Workrooms

BY FREDERIC J. HASKIN
Washington, D. C.—The average visitor to the Smithsonian institution little realizes the varied work that is carried on there. He doubtless thinks that the work consists in tagging articles presented to the museum and then, placing them in glass cases. A trip through the workshops however shows how erroneous this idea is.
There are shops of many varieties.
In the first place all of the cases are built and painted right on the premises. In exhibits where metal rods are used, the rods are made in the plumbing shop. Where there is a call for some article to be made of tin,
this is done in the tinsmith. The electricity used for lighting is furnished by a private shop. These are all aside from those which might be called technical, or the ones used in connection with the actual exhibits.

SHOPS ARE FASCINATING
The places that are not open to the general public are as interesting
if not more so, than those on display. For instance, there is a shop where fossils are chipped out of the rock in which they have been imbedded for centuries. Some of these are tiny, while others are mammoth. The miracle to the layman is why the workman doesn't chip away part of the fossil. After all sections of a fossil have been removed from the rock,
they are carefully put together and the original skeleton formed. There are some fearful and wonderful results on view. Even the most harried and trouble visitor after viewing several species of the dinosaur is apt to heave a sigh and remark, "Well, at least I didn't live in the day of such beasts."

REPAIR INSTRUMENTS
In an outside shed, known as the south shed, is the shop in which all of the technical instruments used by the scientists are repaired and generally kept in order. Of course it is necessary that all such instruments
be absolutely accurate. "But," the workman in this shop is therefore of vast importance. To the average layman, however, it means nothing. When an official of the museum was showing a woman visitor around and took her into this shop, a scientific-looking person came forward to inquire if he might be of assistance. When informed that the woman was merely going through the shops, he returned to his work, remarking with a somewhat quizzical smile, "Not much in here to interest a lady!" And he was right!

On the second floor of this shed is the workroom used by Samuel P.
Langley in his studies of aerial locomotion. This room has been left in much the same condition as when used by him. Even the bird's wings which he used in these studios are still hanging on the walls.

Then there is the shop, or studio,
as the sign over the door reads,
where models of a mechanical nature
are repaired, and where models of early conceptions of airplanes are made according to the plans of their original inventors. In connection with this letter, some time ago a well-known inventor of airplanes, took exception to the fact that such models
were being made and placed on exhibition. It was his claim that no model should be exhibited of a plane which had not actually been constructed.
His protest apparently carried little weight as this work is being continued, three models having been completed.

In addition to the workshops there is the division where all letters of inquiry are received and answered. The work is much more varied than may be supposed by a tourist trip through the various buildings.

LETTER FROM LESLIE PRECOTT TO THE LITTLE MARQUISE, CARE OF THE SECRET DRAWER

Well, it's all over and the memories of it are put away in the safety deposit vault, little Marquise. I don't know when I shall take it again. I have closed the first book of my life. All that I have written to you, all my thoughts, all my problems, all my hopes and fears, all my joys and sorrows; in fact, all the first years of my married life, I am putting away. I am starting on a new path which promises to be one very different from the last.

Have I learned anything from the last four years? I don't know. It almost seems to me that I am just as much a creature of moods and impulses, of little jealousies and trivial prejudices as I always have been.

There is, however, one thing that I have learned, little Marquise, and learned thoroughly. Love does not change character. Character is something of slow growth. Character can be changed no more by love than it can be changed by religion.

I think, perhaps, that I am growing more tolerant, and I am almost sure that Jack is growing more thoughtful, but neither of us have reached anything near the tolerance or thoughtfulness that we have been taught to believe would come to us immediately through a great love.

I am an old married woman now with two children. I have passed out of the romance of marriage long ago. In fact, my romance was shattered early and I have found that life is very different from that of which I dreamed. I am leaving this place where the beginning of my married life was spent, seeking not thrills, not passionate love, not even a great love, but contentment.

I want to be contented with conditions. I know that one should never be contented with attainment, and I still seem to me to be contented with what I have. I have found that life is very different from that of which I dreamed. I am leaving this place where the beginning of my married life was spent, seeking not thrills, not passionate love, not even a great love, but contentment.

Four years ago, when I married Jack, I did not have much of an idea of what lay before me. I only knew that when he was with me I felt the thrill of his presence all through my being. I wanted to be with him always. I begrudged every moment that he had to be away from me. Although I did not know it, I think I was jealous of his time. I liked to raise my eyes to his and find admiration there. I liked to nestle in his arms and find tenderness there. I liked to hear him speak, and find a caress in each word. Until one morning when I found that I was not my husband's first love I had not had room in my heart for a jealous thought. Until I woke up after the motor accident and found little Jack in my arms, I had not the slightest conception of what a woman must feel toward a helpless little human mite that has been given into her care.

Until then all my world had been in Jack's love for me. Since then I found that world one of great illusions and they faded out and then came back and faded out again until I do not know whether the illusion which is in my brain and soul is in reality or that the material things which are about me every day are only real.

AN OPERATION RECOMMENDED

Avoided by Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Los Angeles, Cal. — "I cannot give too much praise to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for what it has done for me. My mother gave it to me when I was a girl 14 years old, and since then I have taken it when I feel run down or tired. I took it for three months before my two babies were born for I suffered with my back and had spells as if my heart was affected, and it helped me a lot. The doctors told me at one time that I would have to have an operation. I thought I would try Pinkham's, as I call it first. In two months I was all right and had no operation. I firmly believe 'Pinkham's' cured me. Every one who saw me after that remarked that I looked so well. I only have to take medicine occasionally, not but I always keep a couple of bottles by me. I recommend it to women who speak to me about their health. I have also used your Sensitive Wash and like it very much."

— Mrs. E. GOULD, 4000 East Side Boulevard, Los Angeles, Cal.

Give Your Rooms A Cheery Outlook

Make Simplicity the Keynote in Your Living Room Hangings

Elaborate hangings are not necessary for a tastefully decorated living room. In fact, they should be avoided, as they cover up a window, making the room dark. The matter of color is very important. Dark rooms require light hangings, whereas a wider latitude is allowed in lighter rooms. Draperies can give spaciousness, height, color and tone to a room. We have a wonderful selection of materials to choose from. All the new and popular colors and weaves, velour, damask, taffeta and Halcyon cloth.

For Dining Room Windows
The window treatment in a dining room should be light, covering the windows only enough to make them attractive and charming. Tell us the style of room you have and let us suggest color combinations and fabrics which will look well thereon.

Dainty Bedroom Draperies
One of the latest styles in bedroom hangings is the use of Chintz, which lends the cheerful and homelike atmosphere reminiscent of early Colonial days. There are also many cretonne and silk hangings which are delightful in a bedroom.

Fringed Panel Curtains
in Shadow Lace, Casement Net, and Fillet. Scalloped or straight at lower edge.

French Marquisette Panels
Hand embroidered borders in colors that are sun and tub fast. Scalloped and fringed at lower edge. Very new and beautiful.

Ruffle Curtains
The most popular treatment for bedroom windows. Dainty, simple and effective. Curtains of Dotted Marquisette, plain or with colored voile ruffles and valance to match. Other Curtains of Voile, Barred and Plain Marquisette and Barred Swiss.

Quaker Lace Bed Spreads
In Plain Linen Lace, or with a touch of color, in rose, blue or gold. With two scarfs to match. A very dainty and attractive set.

RESUMED IN OLD
BLACK STONEPIT

New Machinery Enables Present Owners to Obtain Large Production at Quarry

Kaukauna—Petrified fish, mud turtles and clams are among the curiosities uncovered by the George A. Kline Stone company in its 40 acre quarry along the north bank of the Fox river, between Plank and August street.

This company is operating the quarry formerly owned by James W. Black. New buildings were erected and new machinery was installed. Two new crushers were added which have capacity of about 300 yards per day. These crushers are driven by a 75 horse power motor.

Hard blue limestone used in the making of roads is quarried. The vein of rock is about 55 feet deep.

The stone is blasted into small pieces and hauled to the crushers by teams. From the crushers it is carried to a screen where it is separated into the various sizes needed. After being graded the stones fall into bins. The huge trucks used in full operation of the quarry employ about 15 men, besides the teamsters and truck drivers.

At present a large new building is under construction and will be divided into two parts, one to be used as a blacksmith shop and the other as a garage.

Most of the stone quarried here is used within a radius of about ten miles of Kaukauna, according to Mr. Kline. There is no railroad line near the quarry from which a siding could be extended to the quarry. Last summer some stone was shipped down the Fox river on barges, however.

WAUPACA FOLK GIVE YOUNG BOB BIG RECEPTION

Senator Norris Declares Him
Fit for Father's Post—Bob Urges Everybody to Vote

Special to Post-Crescent
Waupaca—Robert M. LaFollette, Jr., Progressive Republican candidate for United States senator to succeed his late father, spoke to one of the largest political audiences assembled here Wednesday afternoon from the bandstand in the court house square. Congressman E. E. Browne of the Eighth district presided and introduced Senator Robert Norris of Nebraska. The senator declared that Robert M. LaFollette, Jr., was one of the most amiable and conscientious men he had known and that the candidate was better fixed to carry on the work of the late Senator LaFollette than any man on earth. Senator Norris said he had known young LaFollette for the last seven years and was sure there never was a better posted man on the workings of the senate and with a better knowledge of pending legislation. Young LaFollette then was introduced. He first warned everybody to turn out and vote, declaring that over confidence had lost many elections. "I am not a 'stand behind the president' right or 'wrong' candidate," he said. He declared himself opposed to the Mellon tax plan, the Esch-Cummings railroad law and extensive military expenditures. He defended the inheritance tax law and voiced his opposition to any plans for salt taxes. Mr. LaFollette spoke for more than an hour and a half to an audience most of which was standing. He was applauded loudly when he finished and shook hands with hundreds.

WAUPACA GOLF TITLE PLAY ON

Matches Start Sunday With 30 Entries and Will Continue for Three Days

Special to Post-Crescent
Waupaca—Beginning at 9 o'clock Sunday and extending through Monday and Tuesday, the play for the city championship will be on with about 30 entries. Play will be made Saturday. The winner will hold the Campbell cup for the next year, when it will be played for again. Visitors are welcome to watch the play without charge. Several of the local golfers attended the exhibition golf match last Sunday afternoon over the beautiful Butte des Morts course at Appleton played by Walter H. Smith, world's premier golfer, and Billy Sixty of Milwaukee versus Frank Walsh, Appleton pro, and Ken Dickinson, state champion. Hagen and Sixty won by a narrow margin in a match made doubtful by the high wind. Hagen played excellent golf, though the feature of the afternoon was Sixty's hole in one at the seventeenth green, a mashie shot of 120 yards. Dayton took first place in the township exhibits at Waupaca golf fair at Weyauwega last week, according to a report issued by O. K. Evenson, county superintendent of schools. The exhibits were better than ever before and 18 out of 22 townships were represented. Each exhibit was judged on a score of 100 points, allowing 60 for quality of products, 25 for attractiveness and arrangement, and 15 for variety and labeling of products. The six highest townships and their scores were: Dayton 94, Lind 93, Royaltown 89, Iola 87, Harrison 86 and Weyauwega 82. First prize was $50 in cash, second $45, third $40, fourth $30. A silver cup also went to the winners of each of these places. All other prizes were $40 in cash.

MASKED RIDER GIVES THRILLS IN MIX FILM
The masked rider who traveled with a band of outlaws, who was more daring, swifter in the saddle, more elusive than a rain cloud whisking by a high wind across the desert wastes—who was this rider? Why was the mask worn, when the others of the pack did not bother to conceal their identities?
That problem seemed to Lassiter to be the key to the situation. If he

Piles Disappear

No Cutting or Salves Needed
External treatments seldom cure Piles.
Nor do surgical operations.
The cause is inside—bad circulation. The blood is stagnant, the veins flabby.
The bowel walls are weak, the parts almost dead.
To quickly and safely rid yourself of piles you must free the circulation—send a fresh current through stagnant pools. Internal treatment is the one safe method. Ointments and cutting won't do it.
J. S. Leonhardt, M. D., a specialist, set at work some years ago to find a real internal remedy for piles. He succeeded. He named his prescription HEM-ROID, and tried it in 1000 cases before he was satisfied. Now HEM-ROID is sold by druggists everywhere under guarantee. It is a harmless tablet, easy to take, and can always be found at Schlitz Bros. Co., who will gladly refund the purchase price to any dissatisfied customer. adv.

HARWOOD MAY HEAD NATIONAL CHURCH COUNCIL

Appleton Man One of Three Nominated for Moderator
at Congregational Assemblage

When the National Council of Congregational Churches holds its annual meeting in Washington, D. C., Oct. 20 to 28, an Appleton man, F. J. Harwood, will be placed in nomination with three others for election as moderator of the conference. Announcement to this effect has been received here from Frederick L. Bagley, associate secretary of the council.

Mr. Harwood's nomination is to be made with that of former Gov. Sweet of Colorado and Fred R. Smith of New York. Election of the Appleton man will be a signal honor, as President Calvin Coolidge is the honorary moderator of the council, the first president in history to act as the nominal head of a religious body. The desire this year is to have a layman as chairman of the gathering instead of a pastor as customary, but three members of the clergy also have been nominated. They are Dr. Dan E. Bradley, Cleveland, Dr. Ozora S. Davis of Chicago, president of Chicago Theological seminary and Dr. Charles S. Mills, New York. The incumbent moderator is Dr. Rockwell Harmon Poetter of Hartford, Conn.

Widespread service of the Congregational church over a long period of years is one of the reasons why Mr. Harwood has been considered for this high office. He is an outstanding member of the First Congregational church here and has been moderator of the Wisconsin conference and a leader in its work for many years. He also has attended a number of the national council meetings, and has taken an active part in them. He has in addition taken a deep interest in the upbuilding of Ripon college, Ripon, which is a Congregational institution.

Mr. Harwood and several others from the Appleton church are expected to attend the Washington meeting, at which 3,000 persons will be present.

POLICE ADOPT NEW SYSTEM OF INJURY REPORTS

Chief Prim Works Out Comprehensive Report System
and Wins Approval

A new system of recording accidents was adopted at the police station Wednesday morning and will be used in place of the old method. Instead of recording all mishaps in a ledger, form sheets will now be kept in loose leaf books which will be used to keep a record of the daily grist of accidents. The new system is more complete, yet simpler than the method employed before.

The form sheets closely resemble a questionnaire, telling who the accident was reported by, the date and time, the name, address and age of those included, whether married or single, address of parents or guardian, place of accident and how it occurred.

If an automobile accident, the name of the owner and driver of the car, the address of the driver, and the extent of the injuries, will be recorded, as well as the name of the attending doctors, names of witnesses and any other remarks pertaining to the affair. The new system will be especially adapted for court reference. Not only are matters pertaining to an accident answered in an orderly manner, but the sheets may be detached from the book when necessary.

Chief of Police George T. Prim is now working on another system for the recording of larceny cases, etc. This also will be put into use at the station within a short time. Under the new system, Appleton police will now keep as complete a record of accidents as any department in the state. Chief Prim was recently complimented on the system by a group of business men from Milwaukee who were here checking up on a certain accident. They declared that it was one of the most complete records they had ever seen at a police station.

Results.

The world progresses. Today all men that look weeks to cure can now be cured in a few days. If you have varicose veins or bunions you can start today to bring them back to normal size, and if you are wise you will do so. Just get an original bottle of Moore's Emerald Oil at any dispensing pharmacist and apply it night and morning to the enlarged veins. It is very powerful and penetrating, and only a little is required. After a few days' treatment the veins will begin to grow smaller and by regular use will soon reduce to normal.

POLICE DIG UP SCANTY CLEW TO STORE ROBBERS

Green Bay Authorities Scout Theory That Burglars Stopped at Little Chute

Robbery of the United Cigar shop at Green Bay Tuesday night which resulted in the loss of furs valued at about $10,000 was committed sometime between 9 and 10 o'clock, police of that city believe. This is the only clew unearthed thus far which may help them in running down the thieves.

A Nash touring car which answered the description of one stolen from a Chicago suburb last week, was seen parked in the alley adjacent to the cigar shop during that hour by persons in a store on the opposite side of the alley. No particular notice was taken of the machine at that time, however.

The car, it is thought by police, was the identical one hurriedly taken from a garage earlier in the evening by a man who declared he had received a long distance telephone call. When he brought the car to the garage in the afternoon, it was with the intention of storing it there for the night. He declared he had received the telephone call from Sturgeon Bay. If the robbery was committed at this time, there can be little foundation to the belief that the party driving a Chrysler touring car through Little Chute at 5:30 Wednesday morning had anything to do with the act supposed to be stolen from a Green Bay fair. The fact that the car was supplied with the questions asked by the men as to how they could get to Milwaukee without going through this city, aroused the suspicions of authorities that they might be the thieves.

Entrance to the store was gained by breaking the glass of a rear window near the latch, raising the sash and then prying apart the iron bars which covered it with a piece of scumming until the opening was wide enough to admit the body of a man.

Between 60 and 70 fur pieces, nearly all fur coats, were taken. The cash drawer had been opened, but only a few cents in stamp money was contained in it. The loss is covered by insurance.

ENVOYS AND MELLON COMPARE DEBT NOTES

help the economic stabilization in the world.

Replying to the French minister, Secretary Mellon said:

"One of the main lines of overcoming the effects of the war which has long retarded its termination linger with us. The Dawes plan is a forward step toward economic stability in Europe. The reconstruction of devastated areas approaches conclusion; governmental expenditures are becoming more regular, more certain of continuation, and more possible of being met through taxation, and budgets are approaching equilibrium.

MUCH UNSETTLED

There still remain, however, loose ends to be gathered in. War and post-war governmental debts in many cases remain unsettled. To establish the binding character of an international promise and to protect its own citizens, the creditor nations must seek adjustment. To keep good its word and to give itself time to recover its prosperity, the debtor nation must determine its future liabilities. No concern can successfully be reorganized in the face of an unfounded demand obligation. So we meet here in council as business men to conclude the one matter which is in controversy between our two countries."

"We were glad to receive the help which France extended to us when we were fighting for our independence and we were eager to make some return in France's own great need. The war is over but we minimize neither the burdens France has borne nor the difficulties which menace her future. We know that this conference opening today may influence greatly the peace of the world. We ourselves cannot escape its repercussions. We feel there for the great responsibility resting upon us. It is our duty to reach with you a conclusion that in the estimation of each of our peoples is fair and in the practical test of time, workable. TEACHERS WORK OUT PROBLEMS AS TERM OPENS

Frequent Meetings Are Being Held to Start School Work on Proper Plane

Meetings of teachers groups of Appleton are taking place this week with the city superintendent of schools. Teachers of the city are divided into six groups for conferences during the year. These are the first and second grade group, the third and fourth grade group, the fifth and sixth grade group, the kindergarten group, the high school principals group, and the high school teachers group. The fifth and sixth grade group and the kindergarten group met earlier in the week, the high school principals met Tuesday, the first and second grade group met Wednesday and the kindergarten group on Thursday. The high school principals will meet at 9:50 every Tuesday morning for a business session at the superintendent's office. Athletic coaches of the junior high schools will meet soon to decide whether they will promote football in their schools.

One of the important subjects at all of the grade school group meetings will be the amount of time to be allotted to each subject during the school year. Every teacher has a chart showing the average amount of time taken for each subject in each grade for the year in other schools in cities about the size of Appleton.

Committees to study the problem are: Sixth grade, the Misses Kimball, Mallman and Fellows; fifth grade, the Misses Rademacher, Bergen and Lin; fourth grade, the Misses Richards, Davidson and Ackerman; third grade, the Misses Smith, Karrow and Lamp; second grade, Miss Featherstone, Mrs. Collins, and Miss Carley; first grade, the Misses Pynn, Catherine Tracy and Butler.

Each district is using a different writing system and an effort is being made to adopt one method. Committees from the teachers groups were appointed to study the problem and select the best system. The committees consist of the Misses Bow, Motimer and Siebensohn for the fifth-grade group; the Misses Heller, Temple and Whittinger for the third-fourth grade group and the Misses MacVean, Josephine Patten and Taylor for the first-second grade group.

Principals of the junior high schools are working on a special office record card for their work. It was reported at the principals' meeting that the card is to contain the complete history of the child, his home life, physical condition, aspirations, ideals and those of his parents, a record of his aptitude and likings, scholastic record, social attainments, and other important facts of his life. The idea of the card is to help his teachers counsel more wisely with him in regard to types of work he might be able to function best in. It is not to force him to choose an occupation, however, but to help the boy or girl make an intelligent choice.

CLOSES UP SHOP AFTER 3 WEEKS OF BUSINESS

Alex Beyer, who opened a fruit store at 502 W. College-ave. three weeks ago did not have a very long business sojourn in Appleton, for he moved all his stock out of his new location and disappeared to parts unknown, and for reasons unknown. A small piece of black crepe with a faded flower attached to it, was seen in the screen door of Beyer's store and this is the only farewell trace he left. It is thought Beyer returned to Fond du Lac, where he conducted a wholesale fruit business before coming to Appleton. It is said he is still interested in the Fond du Lac business, and might have been trying the retail store in Appleton merely as an experiment.

NOISY YOUTHS FINED FOR DISTURBING DANCE

Six youths from Freedom got too noisy at a dance at Twelve Corners Sunday evening, and their excessive good time demonstrated by their disorderly conduct resulted in all six being arrested by Frank Wagner, town of Cedar constable. Five were haled into municipal court Wednesday morning on a charge of disturbing the peace. Edward Jahnke, Lawrence Rickert, and Leo Kiefer, entered pleas of guilty and paid fines of $5 and costs totalling $7 each.

Tony Griesbach and Robert Griesbach entered not guilty pleas and their trial was set for Oct. 8. They furnished bonds of $50 each. Each district is using a different writing system and an effort is being made to adopt one method. Committees from the teachers groups were appointed to study the problem and select the best system. The committees consist of the Misses Bow, Motimer and Siebensohn for the fifth-grade group; the Misses Heller, Temple and Whittinger for the third-fourth grade group and the Misses MacVean, Josephine Patten and Taylor for the first-second grade group.

Fifteen cans of fingerling black bass and perch were planted in Little Lake Butte des Morts Wednesday by the Outagamie County Fish and Game Protective association. The fish were planted on the west bank of the lake near Stroeh's Island where the water is thought to be in fairly good condition.

The fish were obtained from the Mississippi river and were unloaded at the Soo line depot at Neenah Wednesday morning.

GARBAGE PETITIONS TO GO TO COUNCIL SOON

Petitions recently circulated by the Appleton Women's club asking that the city provide some adequate means of disposing of garbage to replace the present system of private collection will be called in shortly and presented to the mayor.

The petitions have not been called in sooner because many persons in the city were absent on their vacations and it was consequently impossible to obtain their signatures. Hundreds of signatures have now been obtained, however, and after they have been in circulation for another week they will be given to the city for consideration.

CURB WALKS AT NEW CHURCH ARE BIG CONVENIENCE

A unique arrangement at the new Methodist Episcopal church are the cement walks two feet in width along the curbs of N. Drew-st and E. Franklin-st in front and at the north side of the building. These curb walks will make it possible for motorists to get out of their cars at any place on the streets where the church is located, and walk to the doors without getting their feet muddy or walking on the grass by crossing the parkways to the sidewalks.

The parkways at the church are being cleared of building debris, and are being seeded. Tiles in the wide sidewalks leading from the street to the church doors will relieve the monotony of what would otherwise be a very large expanse of cement.

Electric light fixtures, of hammered iron, and shaped like lanterns are now being installed throughout the building.

Hogs are considered profitable when the farm price per 100 pounds is sufficient to pay for about 11 bushels of corn.

A Bargain In Quality Fine One-Profits Studebaker Coach—at a new low price

THIS Standard Six Coach has always been a wonderful value—a leader of the Studebaker line. Yet on August 1st, its previous low price was reduced one hundred dollars.

Today you can buy the same fine car without a single change in equipment or construction—at this new low price which only further emphasizes the Studebaker policy of offering you a "bargain in quality."

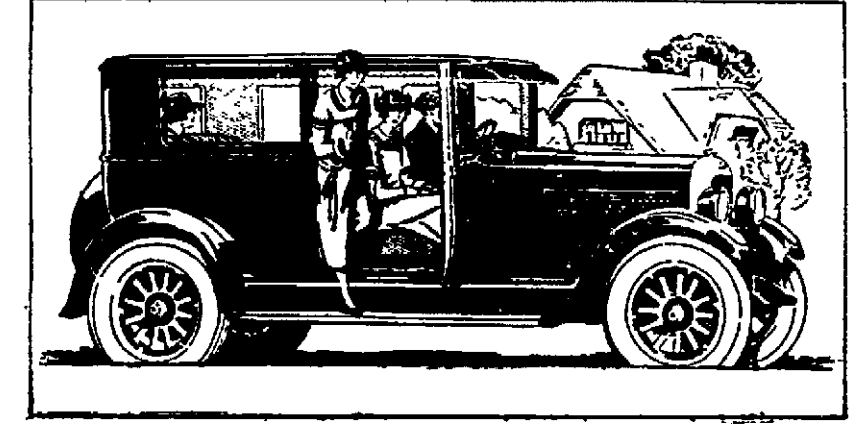

Here is a truly fine coach—built throughout from quality materials and careful workmanship. Fine northern white ash and hard maple are used in body construction. We pay a premium to obtain the toughest grades of steel. The upholstery is a durable woolen fabric—the windshield and windows are real plate glass. Extra equipment includes a gasoline gauge, clock, stop light, etc.

Here is a Coach with gasoline gauge on the dash

Six Coach is the most powerful car of its size and weight. Full-size balloon tires and an especially designed steering mechanism add to its riding and driving ease. A completely machined crankshaft gives perfect engine balance and reduces vibration to a minimum.

Yet this Standard Six Coach sells for no more than competing cars—its low price is made possible by the Studebaker policy of one-profit manufacture.

There are only two cars manufactured on this one-profit basis. Studebaker in the fine car field, and the Ford in the low priced field. Only in these two cases does one company, in its own plants make all bodies, all engines, all clutches, steering gears, differentials, springs, gear sets, gray iron castings and drop forgings.

This one-profit policy not only eliminates the extra profits of outside parts and body makers—but it also makes possible unit-built construction. All parts for Studebaker cars are designed, engineered and built as a unit. And being built as a unit they function as a unit—which results in years longer life, scores of thousands of miles of excess transportation, greater riding comfort, lower repair costs and much higher resale value.

But the only way to judge this Standard Six Coach is to see it—to actually sit behind the wheel and drive it through the thick of traffic, over the steepest hills and rough country roads. Then, and only then, can you completely appreciate its amazing power, its velvet smoothness and wonderful riding qualities.

The FLAPPER WIFE

by Beatrice Burton © 1925 NEA SERVICE INC.

She went into the dining room and came back with a pile of plates, and a vegetable dish.

"Then, whom is he in love with?" Mother Gregory asked. "If he's not in love with you... depend upon it, a man of Dick's age is always in love with somebody or other. That's Nature."

Gloria stood silent for a moment, watching Dick's mother pile whipped cream on the short cake.

"Yum, yum! Doesn't that look delicious?" she said childishly. Then she sobbed. "I told you this morning that I think he's fallen in love with Miss Briggs. And I do think so!"

"Nonsense!" Mother Gregory said sharply. "Dick likes you just as well as he ever did. You just settle down and be a good wife to him, and he'll be tickled to death with you."

She nodded vigorously, so that all the beads on her black dress sparkled.

"I really haven't been a good wife, have I?" Gloria asked humbly. Afterward, she wished she hadn't said that.

Mother Gregory was the soul of frankness always. She opened her lips, now, and let Gloria have the truth about her wifedom.

"You never were any kind of a wife at all to Dick!" she said. "You were a drag and a worry to him... a pretty toy. And any toy becomes tiresome, after a while."

She put her hands on the girl's slim shoulders, and looked at her gravely.

Months ago I told you married life wasn't a game, but a business. Didn't I?" Gloria nodded.

"You believe me now, don't you?" Mother Gregory went on. "And I'm going to tell you something else. Nothing ties a man to a woman like a child. You take my advice, and give Dick a son or two... and a couple of daughters."

Tears smarted in Gloria's eyes. It was too late now, for that wise advice. Dick no longer loved her. He didn't want her to be the mother of his children. She was sure of that.

She winked away her tears, and helped Mother Gregory serve the short-cakes.

There was a chill in the air when Dick and Gloria left the Gregory homestead at ten o'clock that night.

Gloria shivered in her thin silk frock. She cuddled up against Dick in the machine, and laid her head down on his shoulder.

But he paid no attention to her. He might have been a man of iron as he sat at the wheel.

"Move over, Gloria," he said finally. "You're in my way. I can't reach the brake."

"You don't need the brake. There's no traffic," Gloria said crossly. But she moved away from him. She had a wild desire to cry.

"You just don't want me near you!" she said, her voice trembling. "I know—I know."

Dick said nothing. In all silence that seemed to crackle all around them... so electric it was... they drove into the garage, and walked around to the front of the house.

"Well, I wonder how many burglars will visit us tonight!" Dick said as he turned the key in the lock. They went in.

"It's a shame about that silver... although we were insured," Gloria answered. "I went down to the office today, and had Miss Briggs look it up."

Dick frowned. "I wish you wouldn't come down there and give her orders," he said. "When I got back from lunch today, she was gone. Her mother called up to say she'd been taken sick. I suppose her feelings were hurt because of something you said to her... You were rude enough to her last night!... Now you promise you'll stay away from my office!"

Gloria tossed her head, wilfully. "She wasn't sick because of anything I said to her!" she exclaimed. "It was something she said to me that made her sick, I'll bet you!"

Dick sat down in his armchair and tilted his pipe.

"Well, what did she say?"

"Told me what a crush she has on you," Gloria answered calmly.

Dick leaped to his feet. "What!" he almost shouted.

"Sure she did," Gloria said. "She told me she's been in love with you for years and years. She said that right up to the time you married me. She hoped you'd fall in love with her... That's why she hates me so! She thinks I came between you."

Gloria stood in front of him, watching to see how he took it.

He took it, unwillingly. He didn't want to believe this thing that Gloria had just told him, although the must have guessed it.

"Are you telling me the truth, Gloria?" he asked at last.

Gloria threw out both her little hands and grabbed the lapels of his coat. "Why should I tell you a lie?" she asked.

"I don't know," Dick answered. "But you've told me a good many of them, you know, in the last few months."

Gloria winced under the sting in his quiet voice.

"Well, whether you believe it or not, it's the truth," she said. "She's in love with you... and you've got to get rid of her. You'd better hire a man for your secretary next time. He won't fall for your fatal beauty!"

She sat down on the davenport, and picked up a magazine. She turned its pages idly. Every nerve was waiting for Dick's answer.

He took his pipe from his mouth, emptied the ashes from it, and he ran to scrape his bowl with his pen-knife. Gloria could see that he was thinking hard. His eyebrows were pinched into a frown.

"No," he said presently. "I'm not going to discharge Susan Briggs. She's a good worker... and she never upsets me. No matter how nervous I am, she soothes me, somehow... just the sound of her voice, the way she looks."

He was trying, in his awkward man's way, to tell Gloria that the very sight of Susan Briggs' quiet eyes gave him a sense of profound placidity and strength... the thing he needed.

"Why?" Gloria cried out. "You're talking about her as if you're crazy about her. You are in love with her! I've told you so, before. And I was right!"

Dick frowned. His eyes looked straight ahead of him under their bent brows.

"No, I'm not 'crazy'—as you call it—about any woman," he said liberally. "He walked to the open window and stood, with folded arms, looking into the fragrant darkness beyond."

"When you say that do you mean me, too?" Gloria asked. There was an agony of entreaty in her voice. "Do you mean that you don't care about me, any more?"

Dick turned slowly toward her, without answering. The movement brought him face to face with her.

She looked at him narrowly, at first only with curiosity, then with a kind of terror. His eyes were cold and without light.

Gloria felt as if some curtain had dropped between them... a curtain that she could not pierce.

She stepped back and put up her hand in a little defensive movement. "You don't love me any more?"

She answered her own question. And then she burst into hysterical tears. Through her eyelashes gathered into little wet points, she could see Dick looking at her curiously, as if he had never seen her before.

She watched him drop into his chair and pick up a book. He set it up between them, like a barrier, and began to read.

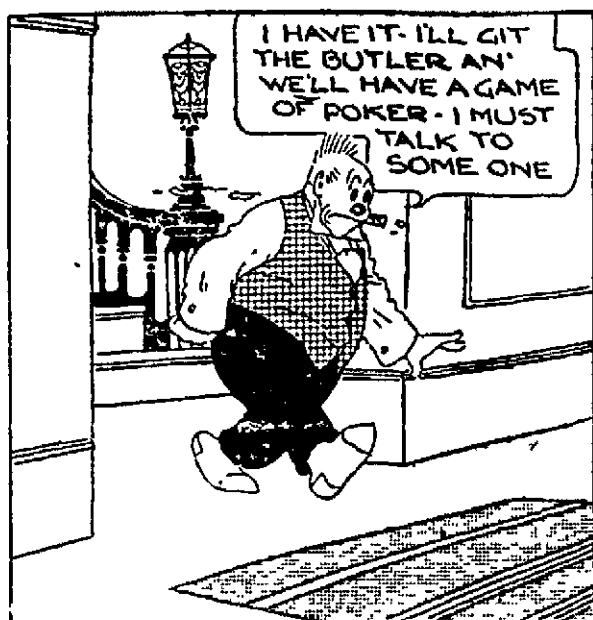

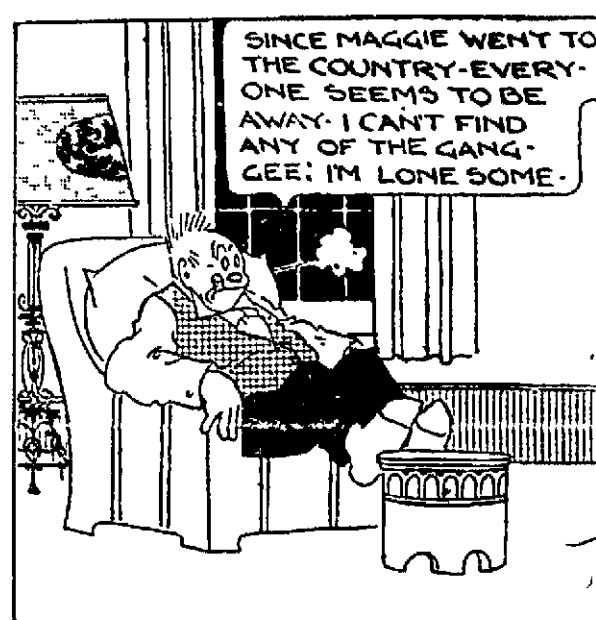

The clock in the hall struck eleven... and, as if the sound of it freed some blocked movement in Gloria's brain, she pulled herself to gether and went upstairs.

As she went she heard Dick strike a match, for his cold pipe. He was calmly settling down to a quiet evening. No doubt he was glad she was gone!

INJURIES WRECK APPLETON HIGH GRIDIRON SQUAD

REGULARS OUT OF MAC'S LINEUP FOR EARLY TILTS

Al Liethen, Orange Lineman, of 1923-24, Out for Entire Season With Infection

With four regulars of his 1925 Appleton high school grid squad on the shelf with injuries of more or less serious nature and, one or two promising reserves also suffering had bruises, Coach Mac McAuliffe is working his crew hard for the opener with La Crosse a week from Saturday. Though he has but plenty of tough, Mac is working to overcome the bad breaks and get more fight out of the remainder of his boys.

AL LIETHEN OUT

Al Liethen, a junior and a letterman at guard and center, for the last two years is the most serious loss. The big boy, who was being groomed for a regular job, is out for the season with an infected ear. His ear was injured near the start of the year and became steadily worse though he stayed out of the work most of the time. The loss will be keenly felt, with Steenis in the backfield and Ashman, a former guard, working at end.

TWO MORE REGULARS

Two more big losses to the Orange for at least a week and possibly a month are George "Eby" Uebelacker, regular center and the only classy man at this job on the squad, and Max Knep, a promising quarter and halfback candidate. "Eby," out of play last year, starred as a frosh in 1923 and easily won his letter, showing up every center that opposed him. The giant pivot man, a six-footer, is suffering from a bad case of the flu. Knep, looked upon as a valuable first string quarter, or half this year, has a bad cramp on the nerves of his legs that keeps him limping around.

HAS TRIPLE TREATERS

An arm injury is keeping Red Vandenberg, one of the most promising of the green linemen and sure to see plenty of service this year, on the side. But Red will be in there fighting in a few days, Mel Heinritz, another line reserve, has a infected arm which will keep him watching. Mac is putting his boys through plenty of tough scrimmages this week and all are showing fine, though they are somewhat slow in moving. Some of the more difficult plays, such as the short passing game, which looks like a feature of the Orange attack this year is going fine with Capt. Ed Steenis on the coast again and is ready to fight any and all comers. "Just give me a shot at Jimmy Goodrich and there'll be a new king of lightweights," he boasts.

Hudkins is getting down to business on the coast again and is ready to fight any and all comers. "Just give me a shot at Jimmy Goodrich and there'll be a new king of lightweights," he boasts. Hudkins first came into the linebacks last spring when he won the Pacific coast lightweight crown from Benjamin, the Hollywood Sheik. Hudkins handed Joe the worst lacing he ever had in his life. In fact, Joe has not been in the ring since that fateful night in Jack Doyle's Vernon arena. BEATS SID TREVIS

Acc just returned from the middle west where he copped a newspaper decision over Sid Trevis. His first workout was mostly one of the mouth. Acc could no more keep from telling his fighting friends what a sensation he was in Chicago than he could keep from eating.

"Honestly," he said, "no lightweight ever created a bigger sensation than I did. I was the first boy to fill Mullens' gymnasium in working out in years."

Hudkins is getting down to business on the coast again and is ready to fight any and all comers. "Just give me a shot at Jimmy Goodrich and there'll be a new king of lightweights," he boasts.

More bold words. But the funny part is there is a lot of truth in them. Acc is a star and that crown once won by Benny Leonard.

He is not yet "punch goofy." But he is crazy enough to kick himself onto the throne—and off of it into oblivion again within the next two or three years.

STAR FONDY TACKLE OUT OF LOCAL GAME

Crippled by the loss of McMillan, star tackle and an on from last year's team, the Fond du Lac High school gridgers settled down to hard practice in preparation for their opening game of the season Saturday with the Ripon eleven. McMillan suffered a sprained ankle in the practice last Saturday morning and now has his foot in a cast. He will be out of the lineup in the first two games, at least.

Recording to reports from the Fountain city, the husky line-man probably will be out of the Fondy-Appleton game here on Oct. 10.

HUDKINS MAKES BIG BOASTS AND KEEPS THEM ALL

Nebraska Wildcat, Contender for Lightweight Title, Works With Mouth, Mitts

Los Angeles—"I can lick any man my size in the world!"

Bold words from the average man. But easy language from Ace Hudkins. Ace is the wildest lightweight from Nebraska. But his wildness isn't confined to the ring—he's wild about himself outside of it.

Of all the chesty fighters who ever came to Los Angeles, Ace is the acc. He is a good fighter. If confidence, or that "I love me" spirit gets much higher, Ace should be a world's champion in no time at all.

Hudkins first came into the limelight last spring when he won the Pacific coast lightweight crown from Benjamin, the Hollywood Sheik. Hudkins handed Joe the worst lacing he ever had in his life. In fact, Joe has not been in the ring since that fateful night in Jack Doyle's Vernon arena.

Pirates Take 1925 National League Pennant

BLUE GRID WARRIORS IN EARLY WORKOUT

CAPT. EDDIE KOTAL KICKING OFF

With several of the 1925 Lawrence college football candidates reporting a week before school opened, Coach Mark Catlin put his team through some good workouts in preparation for a tough season. Two veteran line-men from last year's state title squad, Counsel, all-state and Midwest gridders and Stark, Appleton guard, have not reported yet and when they come out the Blue line will be greatly improved in spite of several green inns. Beloit, with an exceptionally strong line and a good backfield, and Coe, always strong, will be two of the Catlin's hardest battles this year. Both will be played at the new George A. Whiting Athletic field, where the above kickoff took place.

FONDY, APPLETON MAY NOT MEET ON DIAMOND SUNDAY

Plymouth May Have E. W. Loop Flag Cinched Because of Ruling on Tie Contests

STANDINGS
Plymouth	13	6 .68

APPLETON	10	9 .52
Chilton	9	9 .50

SUNDAY GAMES

APPLETON AT FOND DU LAC (tentative)
Plymouth at Chilton

Plymouth, the team which lead the Eastern Wisconsin baseball league since the end of the first month of the season, probably has the loop pennant already clinched as the result of a squabble over the Fondy-Appleton game at Fond du Lac last Sunday which was called in the 14th frame at 4-4 because of darkness. If Fondy and Appleton play Sunday and the Sanderman won while Plymouth lost to the darkhorse, Chilton crew the race would end in a tie, necessitating another game, but it looks as if Fondy and Appleton are done for the season.

A LOOP RULING

The regular loop season for the two squads ended last Sunday but they were to play off the tie this Sunday, so giving Fondy a chance at the title. However, other league teams said such a game was illegal and a special league meeting is being held Thursday evening at Fond du Lac to decide the issue. Managers of E. W. loop teams were very busy last Sunday.

LOCALS WORK HARD

However, Manager Baetz is taking little chances on the result of the meeting, though he declares the ruling is correct and the game probably will not be played, giving Plymouth the title. The crew losses Sunday or not, he has been working his men all week in an effort to beat Fondy out of a chance at the box and to work in a new infield to help out in the place of Cully Schultz, third sacker, who is getting a tryout with the Brewers this week. Baetz, who also was out last Sunday, will be back at the shortstop job and this will give Baetz a chance to go back to his usual outfield job.

ANOTHER NEW LINEUP

Boots will be at short, Al Goshka, regular first sacker and all-around infielder, at third, C. Tornow, back at his regular job at second base and Cave Radtke, utility man on first base. He did a nice job there last week and his hitting was good. In the outfield, Crowe and Chris Klundt will aid Baetz. With a number of left hand batters in the Fondy lineup, Crowe will play rightfield. The local hurler saved the day for Appleton last week at Fondy when he took a pretty drive labeled for two sacks out of the air with two on base, two down and the score tied.

RIVALS MET AGAIN

Fondy let Louis Schramm, the loop strikeout king, go to Milwaukee with the provision that he return for Sunday's game and he will again hook up with Poca who gave Fondy three outs to have to take a tough tie Sunday. It should be a pitcher's ball battle royal. Last and Weed will be the rival backstops.

SCHULTZ MAY BE BACK

Cully Schultz probably will return with Schramm and in that case Goshka will go back to first base, his regular job. None of the three loop men, Schultz, Schramm or Quasus, Campbellshot outfielder, have been given their trial at Milwaukee yet, this week. Owing to the chilly weather and the Appleton game, Fondy cancelled the post-season Plymouth series.

Fond du Lac—"Skull practice" was the main order of business. The team talked over their mistakes in last Sunday's game when Appleton was able to push the game into extra innings and force the locals to a 14 inning tie. Appleton and Fondy have played into the extra innings in their last two games and the locals don't want to be late for supper again next Sunday if they can help it.

Tickets for this game will be sold at the regular admission price and the contest will start at 2:15 o'clock.

SIX EX-GIANTS NOW LEAD N. L. SQUADS

New York — Six ex-Giants are now managing teams in the National League. They are: Wilbert Robinson of Brooklyn; Art Fletcher, Phillies; Jack Hendricks, Reds; Dave Bancroft, Braves; Bill McKechnie, Pirates, and George Gibson, Cubs. John McGraw is also an ex-Giant player, though still with the same club, of course. Robinson and Gibson were catchers, Bancroft, Fletcher and McKechnie, infielders and Hendricks an outfielder. Only the St. Louis Cardinals are piloted by a chap who isn't listed as a former Giant performer.

BLUES TAKE 1ST SCRIMMAGE OF YEAR ON TUESDAY

Bert Nason, Halfback, Pulls Ligament; Pete Briese May Be Used at End Job

Lawrence college gridiron aces went through their first scrimmage since practice began last week Tuesday. Coach Mark Catlin, assisted by Harry Sylvester and A. C. Denny, drove his varsity warriors against Basing's freshman lineup for practically an hour of grueling competition. At the end of the scrimmage, the varsity stars were none the worse for their workout. Nason, halfback, who tore a ligament, was the only casualty.

The scrimmage had all the defects of early season tilts, but the work of the varsity lineup, shifted again and again to give all the candidates a chance, showed promise of a real machine. The backfield drove with a speed and sureness that presaged mid-season efficiency.

WORKS ON LINEMEN

It is the line, however, that is proving Catlin's greatest problem. With big holes to fill caused by the graduation of Stoll and Cooke, ends, Gardner, guard and Dunham, tackle, who has not returned to school, the Blue mentor is working overtime on his forward wall. In the scrimmage Tuesday, he shifted Briese from the backfield to one end and used Bayer of last year's freshman lineup at the other wing. In the other line positions Hupke at center, Steensland and Weinkauf at guards and Premo and Boettger at tackles looked strong.

Counsel, who was an all-conference guard last season, arrived in the city late Tuesday and reported for practice Wednesday. His coming has raised Lawrence hopes several notches.

In scrimmage, Catlin used Capt. Eddie Kotal in fullback, Zimmerman at quarter, and alternated Nason, Nobles and Heldeman in halfback position.

MARQUETTE MENTOR WORKS ON CAGERS

Milwaukee—A call for basketball candidates for the 1925-26 Marquette university team has already gone forth and several of Coach Frank J. Murray's cagers were his training guests at the Marquette football camp on the island at Lake Meunah, Wis. for the last two weeks. Marquette has a heavy basketball schedule for the coming year, including scraps with Wisconsin, Iowa, Minnesota and Butler in Milwaukee, and it will be necessary for the squad to get in plenty of training at an early date. Coach Murray also handles the football squad and an assistant will have charge of the cagers during the fall months.

day's game when Appleton was able to push the game into extra innings and force the locals to a 14 inning tie. Appleton and Fondy have played into the extra innings in their last two games and the locals don't want to be late for supper again next Sunday if they can help it.

Tickets for this game will be sold at the regular admission price and the contest will start at 2:15 o'clock.

PLENTY OF GOOD SEATS LEFT FOR BAY-BEAR BATTLE

Packers Put in Secret Sessions to Give Big Halas Crew Hot Reception Sunday

Green Bay—There are still plenty of good seats available for the Green Bay Packers-Chicago Bear Pro league football game which will be played here Sunday afternoon at the City stadium in Janesville.

The demand for reservations has been unusually brisk but it is well for prospective purchasers to remember that reserved seat capacity at the City stadium is nearly three times as large as the old Bellevue park.

CAN SEAT 5,400

The huge grandstands located on both sides of the gridiron between the 30-yard lines can handle an enormous throng. Each of these stands has a seating capacity of approximately 2,100 while it is possible to seat another 1,200 in the bleachers. This is a total seating capacity of 5,400. What's more there is standing room for another 1,500.

Seats will be on sale at the usual places about town and in Appleton and Neenah until Saturday night. Those having reservations are urged to pick them early so as to avoid confusion during the rush hour. The ticket window at the City stadium will be opened Sunday morning at 10:30. Gates at the park will swing back at 12:45 and the kickoff is scheduled promptly at 2:15.

ROOM FOR ALL

There is no question but that a capacity crowd will be on hand to see the Packers mix with the Bears in a game that will go a long way towards deciding titular honors in the Pro league. However, the Green Bay management wants the football fans of Green Bay, Upper Michigan and Northwestern Wisconsin to know that there will be room for all in the big park.

Hundreds of fans are expected to come here from Milwaukee and points en route to Green Bay and from Ishpeming and other cities in Upper Michigan as excursions are passing through here and many will take advantage of the low rates and drop off for the game.

Many of the places selling tickets in Green Bay have disposed of their first installment and additional blocks of choice reservations are being put out by the management. Hundreds of requests for seats have been received from out of town fans and, from present indications, it would seem as if all roads will lead to this "Bay" on Sunday.

PACKERS DRILLING HARD

In the meantime, the Packer squad is engaging in secret practice at the stadium and Capt. Lambeau is driving his players at a terrific clip so that they will be right on edge Sunday in order to give George Halas and his husky Bears a reception that they will remember for a long time.

HAGEN MEETS DIEGEL IN GOLF SEMI-FINALS

Chicago, Ill.—Players in the Professional Golf championship shimmered down to the semi-finals as a result of four third round matches at Olympia Fields country club Thursday. In the first contest Tommy Armour of New York crossed cloaks with Monte Dutra, Aberdeen, Washington. The other upper bracket match was between Tom Kerrigan of New York who set a record of 32 for the first nine of number three course Wednesday.

The defending champion, Walter Hagen, had as his third opponent Leo Diegel of New York, Canadian open title holder.

The fourth contest Thursday was between John Farrell of New York and Harry Hooper of Dallas.

In addition to the championship matches the second 36 holes of the consolation event was played by professionals eliminated during the first two days of the tournament.

Dallas—Hugh Nichols, Cedar Rapids, Iowa, won two of three falls from Harry Demetral, Dallas wrestler.

New Champs Whip Phillies 2-1, As Giants Take Neat Trouncing From St. Louis

Senators Can Settle A. L. Race Thursday by Double Win if Browns Drop Tilt

New York—(P)—The National League pennant race is over with the bunting railed firmly to the Pirate's mast. Washington could settle the American League controversy Thursday if it should win its double bill from the Indians and the Athletics should howl to the Browns.

16 YEARS WORK

Pittsburgh had been chasing the championship for sixteen years without success. Manager McKechnie, his assistants and players, were given an ovation by fans who swarmed the field Wednesday after the Corsairs defeated the Phillies, 2-1.

PECK IS HONORED

Roger Peckinpaugh, Washington shortstop, has been chosen as the American League's most valuable player in 1925 by a committee composed of one veteran baseball writer in each city of the circuit. He received 18 points out of a possible 64. The Giants concluded their appearance at St. Louis by taking a double trouncing from the Cardinals, 5-0, and 5-2. Chicago took the final game of a series from Brooklyn 2-1.

The Braves annexed both sections of a double header from the Reds, 6-1, and 2-1, the last encounter going 12 innings. While the Senators were without a game due to cold weather, the Mackmen whipped the Browns twice, 6-3, and 7-3, cutting Washington's lead to seven and one half games. Garland Braxton, recruit from the Springfield Eastern League club, pitched his first game for the Yankees and defeated the White Sox 7-6.

Detroit topped the Red Sox 15-1. Fred Haney, third sacker for the Tigers, sustained a slight concussion of the brain after being hit by a pitched ball by Howard Ehmke in the fourth inning.

DOUBLE ELIMINATION PLAN

The tourney will be run on the double elimination plan. A player will have to be beaten twice before he is eliminated. A loser of only one battle is in line for a third place berth and may even play a man with a clean slate for the title in the finals. All of the first round tilts are evenly matched. One match will find a high school teacher playing against a student, a member of the school tennis squad and two others

EDDIE TYRON IS RIVAL OF GRANGE

Colgate. Halfback Furnishes Red Competition on Ice Wagon as Well as Grid

Hamilton, N. Y.—(P)—Eddie Tyron, Colgate's backfield ace not only belongs in the exclusive circles of football icemen, but has a strong claim to a position at the top of the list. Red Grange of Illinois, has drawn the spotlight on his ability to handle the legs as well as the pigskin, but the blonde leader of this year's Colgate eleven began peddling ice at the age of 11 and has been doing it during the summer ever since, a record which eclipsed Grange's mark. Eddie is a rival of Red not only as an iceman, but as a maker of long runs on the grid.

In 1921, as a halfback for Suffield Prep, he scored two touchdowns and almost singlehandedly defeated the Yale freshmen. In the Colgate-Columbia game, playing for Colgate he scored five touchdowns and a run of 35, 50, 65 and 85 yards for the scores of 11 and has been doing it during the summer ever since, a record which eclipsed Grange's mark. Eddie is a rival of Red not only as an iceman, but as a maker of long runs on the grid.

MICHIGAN OPENS GRID YEAR WITH OLD RIVAL

Michigan will open the 1925 grid iron season against a long-time rival, Michigan State College, formerly known as the Michigan Aggies. In the 1924 battle the Wolverines did well to emerge a victor, 7-0. It is an exceedingly tough tilt for a starter.

ELEMENTS TAKE ONE AWAY FROM PIRATES

The Pirates got a rather tough break in their abbreviated tilt with Brooklyn the other day. For, after taking a 6-0 lead, the fracas was halted by rain. It kept the McKechnie crowd from keeping pace with the Giants, who turned in a victory over Cincinnati the same afternoon.

HORNSBY FAR SHORT OF HIS 1924 RECORD

Rogers Hornsby looks pretty certain of leading the National League in the art of swat again this season. But he's some little distance away from his 1924 mark. Fact is, the "Cactus" pilot isn't apt to reach the .400 class this campaign.

LOCAL MEN TALK

AT ROTARY MEET

Rasey, Wettengel and Miller on Program at Conference in Ironwood

George R. Wettengel and Earl Miller, president and secretary of the Appleton Rotary club, have returned from Ironwood, Mich., where they took part in the program of the executive conference of the tenth Rotary district, Monday and Tuesday. Lee C. Rasey, district governor, presided at the conference sessions, and also had a part on the speaking program. Mr. Rasey has not yet returned to Appleton.

At the opening of the session Monday morning, Mr. Rasey told of the purpose of the meeting, and on Monday afternoon he talked on Commercialization of Rotary. On Tuesday morning Mr. Rasey again gave a talk, this time on Extension Work in the District. FARMER ORDERED TO PAY DEBT OR LOSE HIS FARM

Charles E. Palmer, town of Liberty farmer, will have to pay $1,000 in debt, the sum of $1,000 within the next two months, or lose his farm through a foreclosure sale, Judge Edgar V. Werner decreed in circuit court Thursday morning. In a judgment entered for Ford et al who sold Palmer the farm on a land contract in 1922. Suit was started because Palmer had not lived up to the terms of the agreement. The total sale price on the farm was $9,500, and Palmer still owes $1,000 on the principal, and $500 in interest, which should have been paid-over a year ago the records show. The suit was not contested, and Palmer did not appear in court.

Cases scheduled for Tuesday in circuit court are those of Hagensmeyer Products Co. vs. Knappstein Brewing Co. and J. G. Hildebrandt, Garshiesch; and Anna Simpson vs. George Robert Simpson.

GAMEL TELLS SON AND DAD OF DUTY TO EACH OTHER

Noted Boy Expert Gives Inspiring Talk on "The Balance Sheet" to Fathers and Sons

The address on "The Balance Sheet," delivered by Frank H. Gamel, boyology expert, at the vocational school to fathers and sons Wednesday evening, was so to speak a short course in training for the responsibilities of fatherhood.

Starting with the assertion that it is one of man's most wonderful experiences to separate a fragment from himself and mould it into a being embodying his own ideals, Mr. Gamel gave a well defined outline of the duties of father and son, one to each other.

He declared that one of the most appalling faults of the age is a father's overlooking his responsibilities of fatherhood. He reminded the dads who were present with their sons that in the reproduction of kind and its development they were in partnership with God. Whatever he said in the way of advice to fathers was also intended for the sons as fathers of the future generation, he told the audience. While a father must do his own training himself, he said that a boy can help his dad be a better father.

DEMAND CONTROL
In presenting "The Balance Sheet," Mr. Gamel showed what a father owes to his son, and what a son owes to his father. The first thing a father owes to his son is "Control," he said. God expects that of him as the older comrade on the way from boyhood to fatherhood, he declared.

Discipline of a child is not an easy task, he admitted. Commanding a regiment of soldiers is not to be compared with it. It is a responsibility he cannot shift to anyone, whether it is mother, teacher, Sunday school teacher, minister, Y. M. C. A. man, or scoutmaster. The man who tries to shirk the responsibility is false to his family, his community, his state, his nation, and his God, he declared. It is a serious thing, to leave a boy unpledged to honor, untrained for work and unwarned of danger, he argued. The juvenile courts of the country are full of the mistakes of fathers in handling their boys, he informed the audience. When a boy fails, it is because his father has failed, and there are no exceptions to the rule, he asserted. Right control of one's son implies sympathetic comradeship, he pointed out.

MUST SET EXAMPLE
A father owes his son a true example, was the second point made by Mr. Gamel. Some strange freak in a man's character usually makes him expect his boys to be better than he is. He may besmear his own name, he may despise church, but he wants his boy to lead a model life and go to Sunday school. The mere making of rules and prohibitions will not make a son a better son, he argued, but setting a good example for the sons will make them unfold into virtuous manhood without any argument.

A father also owes his son justice, he pointed out. Mr. Gamel gave many anecdotes to bring out this point and showed that there are times when a father owes his son an apology, especially when he has done him a great injustice.

Clean blood is one of the most sacred obligations of a father to his son. Mr. Gamel set forth. He must leave his son free from the taint of disease and free from uncontrolled passion. He advised fathers to have confidence, heart-to-heart talks with their

CECELIAN BAND PLAYS LAST CONCERT TONIGHT

A trombone and cornet solo by William Van Daalwyk and George Bolwerck will feature the final open air concert of the season by the Cecelian band of Kimberly in the Kimberly park Thursday evening. The band is under the direction of Anthony Van Himbergen.

A number of concerts were played for large audiences during the summer.

MITCHELL IS GOING HUNTING IF FIRED

Dallas, Tex.—Big game in Africa will be Col. William Mitchell's target if he is ousted from the army air service, he said here Wednesday on his way to Washington.

Col Mitchell, chief critic of the American air service, stopped here on his overland journey from San Antonio to the national capital, where he will testify before President Coolidge's air service investigation board.

"I am not thinking about politics," said the flying colonel when congressional possibilities were mentioned.

sons on life's most important functions.

SON'S DEBT TO DAD

Turning to the second part of his address, Mr. Gamel showed the boys present what they owe to their fathers. They owe them a square deal, maintaining that a son has no right to put his father "in bad" with God through disobedience. A boy need never hope to outgrow obedience. The older a man becomes, the more masters and the more laws he encounters. Boys find their freest days while at home with their parents. The most red-blooded boy is the one who has the grit to make himself obey, he said. Mr. Gamel pointed to the example of Christ, as the greatest of men, who always obeyed both his human and his divine father.

Every boy also owes it to his dad to keep his record clean, he advised the sons. To protect a father's good name, a boy must choose the right associates, for bad associates and a good family name cannot go together.

The third great duty of a boy to his father is comradeship. He told boys to make their dads their best chums, just as every dad ought to make of their boys their best friends.

Republicans Shudder At Name Of War President

Washington—Postmaster General New's refusal to authorize the issue of stamps bearing Woodrow Wilson's portrait in connection with the Wilson foundation, though his successor's face appeared on those pertaining to the Harding memorial movement, is symptomatic of a curious Republican mental attitude, amounting almost to superstition, toward the late Democratic president.

Mr. New's explanation was that Harding died in office, while Wilson died a private citizen, and that the time that has elapsed since his death is too short for his memory to be given the honor it will some day attain.

Nobody can deny the premises, though he may not accept the conclusion. It is reminiscent of the discovery of some difference between the Roosevelt foundations and the one in honor of Wilson when the income tax division decided that the donations to the latter were subject to tax, while those to the former were exempt. I think that Secretary Mellon, who has more tact than some of those about him, straightened this out when he learned of it, but the incident still rankles among the friends of the war president.

BURNED WILSON SPEECHES

Some of these seen in the appointment of Miss Jessie Dell to the vacant civil service commissioner's place. Miss Dell is, from all accounts, an efficient woman, probably as capable as anybody that was suggested for the place, which by custom belongs to a Democrat, but the Democratic women will not be convinced that the determining factor in the award of the $7,500 place—the best held by any women in the government—was anything else but the fact that she was a member of the organization that picked the White House in the suffrage campaign and burned Wilson's speeches in Lafayette square.

The women Democrats opposed the appointment and Chairman Shaver of the Democratic national committee sought to get it for Izetta Jewel Brown, Democrat's star orator.

The anathema on everything that jettisoned to Woodrow Wilson is a heritage of the Harding regime though it does not seem to lose strength with the lapse of time. When Harding was waiting for inauguration day he wanted a yacht in which to play around the Caribbean. President Wilson learned of the desire of his soon-to-be successor and by telegraph placed the Mayflower at his disposal. Harding, also by telegraph, declined the courtesy.

WILSON KEPT WAITING

The next manifestation was on the occasion of the funeral of the Unknown Soldier, when the former president was kept waiting for days for a reply to his expressed desire to participate in the observances and an assignment to a place in the parade.

In the most extraordinary places the strange aversion to a name cropped out. In the diplomatic ante-room of the state department are displayed the portraits of former secretaries of state done in oils. The great paintings fill the walls, they date back to
